Dear Sirs,

The proposed compromise solution of Microsoft being allowed to "donate" it's anti-competitive practice/products to schools is absolutely disgraceful. However, for an American citizen to expect justice to be served where there is enormous amounts of cash (and political egos) at stake is wishful thinking, at best. It absolutely boggles the mind that the Justice Department can even consider such a proposal. But then again, I'm just an average citizen, not a legal expert.....thank God.
